Welcome to the Alpine church of Christ

January 09, 2022

Ordinary people serving an extraordinary God.

Asher and Caleb bring in the new year by serving others during the Lord's Supper. What a great example to all!

Why is a cement truck maneuvering in our backyard? Ask Greg.

The college-age students are at it again! Caleb, Cali, and Elisabeth met on Monday night to study Genesis. They are such a great example for all of us!

Indian Lodge Trail

A fun hike that is just outside of Fort Davis, the Indian Lodge Trail in Davis Mountains State Park is about 2 and half miles in length and skirts up along the Park's southwestern boundary. The trail offers unimpeded views of the surrounding high desert ranch land of the Chihuahuan Desert. To the north you can see Mount Locke and Mount Fowlkes, which are peaks that are home to the University of Texas' McDonald Observatory. To the south, views of the Haystack and Puertacita Mountains as well as Mitre Peak. To the east, Keesey Canyon and the distant Arkansas Mesa. In addition, to the west there are views of Blue Mountain and Mount Livermore, the highest point in the Davis Mountains.

The hike is of moderate difficulty, and would not be a problem for energized kids, but can be a little rocky. Be sure that everyone in your group is wearing proper footwear. Also wear desert appropriate clothing, such as long sleeved shirts and a wide brimmed hat, as the trail is mostly unprotected from the rays of the sun. Bring water, as none is available on the trail.
