Why is it that every Wednesday night there are papers left out all over the counter?

Actually they are not just papers. They are cards and envelopes and pens. In the past, one person, me, took the responsibility of congratulating couples for anniversaries, individuals for birthdays, and visitors for visiting. Times have changed!

Carol and Tricia have organized a way for anybody to get involved in being an encouragement. They asked for donations of cards and purchased some of them themselves. Then they organized the birthday and anniversary list so cards could be signed and sent out ahead of time. They also retrieve copies of the visitor cards.

Each Wednesday afternoon Carol organizes and prepares the cards and envelopes for the Wednesday night class. Those who arrive early begin signing the cards. After the class is finished various people help seal and mail the end products.
